Optimizing Insurance Portfolios with CRA-Zones

14:30 - 15:10

A cyber catastrophe hits, and yet there's no sound. In many cases no one notices any interruption or damage for weeks or even months. Meanwhile, the financial losses mount. The intangible nature of cyberattacks is what makes these events so concerning to both the businesses facing the threats as well as the insurance carriers helping them mitigate the financial consequences. But for insurance carriers there is the added concern of potential accumulations. How can they understand their exposure and potential loss to such an unknown, evolving area? This discussion will discuss how CRA-Zones can help insurers analyze cyber accumulations.
